

ELIZABETH

Design by
Nathan Yong

Description

As with the majority of Nathan Yong's designs, Elizabeth is both fluid in design and makes the best possible use of natural materials. The impressive structure of the armchair and settee is in black-stained solid ash, creating a welcoming nest in which several cushions in carefully-blended colours and/or covering materials create an intimate and welcome space. Examining this structure closely, the number of constituent elements and the quality of their assembly, one can easily appreciate the amount of work which has gone into its production.

In a living room, the settee and armchair will combine just as well with classic pieces as they will with more contemporary items, bringing a warm, 'deco' feel. The innumerable possibilities in terms of colour and/or material associations for the cushions will also guarantee its owner an almost unique piece!

CONSTRUCTION & COMFORT

Structure in black-stained ash. The settee has 1 seat cushion, 1 back cushion, 2 lumbar (2/3 - 1/3) and 1 overstitched scatter cushion; the armchair has the same, but with just 1 lumbar. All these cushions may be upholstered in different fabrics and/or colours, including the lumbar cushions of the settee, so each one may be in a different colour. Feather-filled back cushion (10 % down / 90 % feathers) in compartmented liner. Seat cushion in foam 42 kg/m³.
